

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for displaying reception sensitivity on a multi-functional mobile terminal providing a user with signal reception states of a variety of communication functions incorporated with the multi-functional mobile terminal by checking a reception sensitivity of a reception signal for a prescribed communication function among a plurality of
5 communication functions, and displaying a reception sensitivity indicator for indicating the checked reception sensitivity on the display screen. If an operation mode of a communication function other than the prescribed communication function is enabled, checking reception sensitivity of a reception signal for a communication function of the enabled operation mode, and displaying a reception sensitivity indicator for indicating the 10 checked reception sensitivity on the display screen.